The early life of John C. Messing who passed away on Friday morning, May 27th at a local hospital, was a life that had been spent in the service for others. In his home where his thoughts were paramount, his love and care for his family was of unflinching devotion through days of sadness, discouragements and joys he depended upon God's strength to carry him on.

His christian life was one of service. For 29 years he served the Christian church in Onawa as trustee and deacon, taking part willingly and faithfully in all the activities of that body, giving wholeheartedly of his material and spiritual help.

His long business career in Onawa, some 42 years, gives proof of the high esteem that was held for him among his friends and patrons. It was his faith in "friends" which made possible the farm equipment for them to carry on their work during the depression period of the early thirties.

Many there are today in this community who owe to the memory of Mr. Messing a debt of gratitude for the trust and confidence he held in "friends."

John Christopher Messing, the son of Henry and Louise Messing, was born in Hand county, Ohio, February, 25th, 1869 and was 80 years, 3 months and two days old at the time of his death.

He came with his parents to Monona County at the age of two years and grew to manhood on a farm in Lincoln township. He received his education in the rural schools of that township and at Wilders Farm College at Wilder, Minnesota. On September 29th, 1903 he was married to Minnie M. Fletcher who preceded him in death in July of 1945.

To this union was born one daughter, Margaret Larson of Hudson, Iowa who survives her father.

In 1910 Mr. Messing took full control of the Marley Implement Business of Onawa, changing the name to J. C. Messing & Company and operated the business until a few years ago when failing health forced him to sell the same.

He was a member of the Christian church of Onawa; the Vesper Lodge, A. F. & A. M.; Abu Bekhr Shrine and Sioux City Consistory, and the Onawa Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his one daughter, 3 grand children and one sister, Sophia Walch, Buffalo, Wyoming and a few other relatives and a host of friends.
